Mr. Truman Dedicates Effort To Anti-Communist Sphere

Talk Couched In Hard Terms

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—(AP)—President Truman today pledged a global crusade for "peace, plenty and freedom" in a blistering inaugural speech denouncing the "false philosophy" of Communism and war.

The chief executive keyed his address to the quickening struggle between the democratic West and the Communist East.

While he cautioned that America's material resources are limited, Mr. Truman promised to draw deeply on the "inexhaustible" resources of this country's technical know-how to help free peoples everywhere.

Communism "holds that war is inevitable," Mr. Truman told massed thousands in the capitol plaza immediately after taking his oath of office for a four-year term. And even now, he said, it is endangering attempts to keep world peace.

But he declared that as a result of American efforts "hundreds of millions of people all over the world now agree with us that we need not have war." These efforts must now be expanded, he said, to include a global economic development aimed at wiping out misery, hunger and despair in backward areas all over the world.

Mr. Truman listed that as one of "four major courses of action" to be stressed in coming years. He also called for a security pact with Western Europe, which he hopes to send to the senate "soon," and he promised to strengthen non-Communist countries co-operating with American security plans by providing them U. S. military advice and equipment.

His proposed new program for improving conditions in the areas which might offer a breeding place for Communism amounted to a call for a new front in the cold war. In this endeavor the co-operation of Allied nations would be "warmly welcomed," the president said.

ANOTHER NORTHER DUE

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Another cold wave, the third in less than a week, will sweep into Texas tonight or early tomorrow, the weather bureau announced. The forecast came as sub-freezing weather from a previous cold front gripped northern Texas and extended southwest to San Antonio.

Temperatures were expected to moderate today under fair skies before the newest northern strikes.

Snow is in prospect tomorrow in both East and West Texas. The mercury dropped to a bitter 9 degrees above zero at Clarendon today. Wichita Falls recorded 11 degrees, Amarillo 16, and Dallas, 21. It was Dallas' coldest day this winter and a heavy frost blanketed the area.

There was a trace of snow at Amarillo and Clarendon but outside of this no precipitation had been reported in the state in 24 hours.

A fog blanketed the Wichita Falls area this morning. Temperatures of from 18 to 32 degrees were expected in the Panhandle and South Plains and upper portions of the Pecos Valley tonight.

San Antonio, with 31 degrees recorded today, had its fourth straight day of freezing weather.

Temperatures over the state today included Bryan, 29 degrees; Houston, 34; Waco, 28; Brownsville, 54, the high for the state; Corpus Christi, 40; Abilene, 24; Austin, 30; Big Spring, 24; El Paso, 30; Corsicana, 24; Lufkin, 28; Texarkana, 30.

Sponsors Beware—

That New Car's Regal, But Taking Chance On It's Illegal No Matter What's The Chatter About Charity

By CLYDE E. JOHNSON

Daily Sun Staff

...Chance on a new car, Mister?

This familiar chant echoes throughout the year.

A man on the street barks through a microphone, waves his red tickets.

A sparkling new car, a Jeep, a bedroom suite, television set, or any number of things, may be the big prize for the lucky ticket-holder.

The man may sell a thousand tickets in a few hours.

If he does, he could be fined $50,000.

Texas law provides a maximum fine of $50 for selling a lottery ticket. The same fine—from $10 to $50—is provided when such "chances" are merely "offered" for sale or "kept" for sale.

And the person who operates, or sponsors, the lottery subjects himself to a fine of not less than $100 and not more than $1,000.

That's what the Penal Code of the State of Texas says.

The officers don't step in, though, despite high court rulings that churches, civic organizations, non-profit groups and charitable leagues are not exempt from the lottery-raffling statutes.

When the money goes for a "good cause," they reason, why should anybody be arrested? No complaints—the basis for arrests—are ever made, officials say.

Because of a lottery's illegality, however, the ticket-buyers can never be really assured of an "honest chance" of winning the prize, or of anything actually being given away, or of getting their money back.

Residents of a Navarro county town recently discovered this.

An informed, reliable source related this incident (names, organizations, etc., withheld):

The whole was the lottery gift, and the money from the tickets sold went into the hands of two men representing an organization.

Most of the money was spent, leaving none to pay off the balance due on the vehicle when the drawing time came.

One of the men wrote a check for the amount owed—a bad check. Then he rapidly sold the vehicle back to the businessmen for $100 more than had been owed, taking a check, which was to "take care" of the bad check written.

The businessman learned the check was bad and he stopped payment on it.

The drawing had been framed, this source said, so that the vehicle went to a person "few people" knew.

The backing organization, which had been inactive, was set into motion, a new, honest drawing was held and the misplaced money was refunded.

It was explained that no court action was attempted in the case, avoiding embarrassment to the organization, and because the undertaking was illegal. It was a lottery.

The game is just plain unlawful—just like a slot machine, which

Simpson Reported Quitting Supreme Court Bench

AUSTIN, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Associate Justice Gordon Simpson will resign from the State Supreme Court and Judge R. H. Harvey of Texas will succeed him, it was reported on good authority today.

Simpson had no comment on the report. He referred newsmen to the Governor's office. The governor could not be reached immediately for comment.

Simpson was elected associate justice of the supreme court in 1944 while on active duty with the army in North Africa.

Friends filed a petition for his candidacy, and conducted his campaign. Simpson is a veteran of both World Wars, was president of the state bar in 1941-42.

He was born in Gilmer in 1894 and received his B. A. and law degrees at Baylor University, Waco.

He served in the house of representatives in 1922-24, was a district judge at Tyler in 1928-28 and practiced law at Tyler until 1942, when he entered the army.

Harvey is an associate justice of the 6th court of civil appeals at Texarkana.

Independence Has $1,000,000 Fire On Day Of Glory

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., Jan. 20.—(AP)—A pre-dawn fire in near zero weather raged through a half block of "business" buildings in President Truman's hometown this inauguration day, causing damage approaching $1,000,000.

The downtown fire was only eight blocks from the summer White House.

No one was reported injured but 30 persons were evacuated from a residential building as the fire spread to the accompaniment of exploding small arms ammunition in a hardware store.

By TEX TASLEY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Texas joined joyfully today in the fanfare that accompanied the inauguration of President Harry S. Truman.

More than 300 strong they came up aboard a special train and planes.

Joining with other Texans who make their homes in the capitol temporarily, they sponsored a colorful float in the mammoth parade.

Numerous pre-inaugural receptions and dinners kept them on the go for two days, but it was their float that brought the Lone Star State to the attention of the multitudes that have crowded the city.

One could spot it far away, for across the front spelled out in imitation Bluebonnets was the name "Texas."

Approximately 40 feet long, it bore a massive globe showing the Western Hemisphere. Superimposed on the globe was a white star denoting the location of the state, and from it stretched streamers to a great red heart across which were emblazoned the words "Deep in the Heart of Texas."

The cities, industries, history, culture and the people of the state were depicted on the float.

The float's Queen of Texas, dressed in an evening gown and representing the beauty of Texas women, was Mrs. Lloyd Benson, Jr., of McAllen, wife of the Rio Grande Valley congressman. She was attended by Miss Evelyn Wilcox, of Wichita Falls, dressed in cowgirl regalia to represent Texas' cattle industry and cowboys, and Mrs. Tom Pickett of Palestine (wife of Rep. Pickett), dressed in a Mexican fiesta costume, to represent Texas' large Latin-American population.

Richard Kling, 3rd, Edinburg, descendant of the man who founded the famed King Ranch of South Texas, represented the

He Looks Mild— Confessed Killer 'Oughta Poisoned Town's Water'

EL PASO, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Authorities in that border city have announced that mid-appearing Roy Frank Godbey has confessed the vengeance killing of an Oklahoma City lawyer who once sent him to prison.

The announcement was made jointly late yesterday by Acting Chief of Police J. W. Fitzgerald and FBI Special Agent D. K. Brown.

The slightly-stopped 52-year old prisoner signed a statement that he shot and killed Earl Pruett on Jan. 11 in an Oklahoma City skyscraper office, the announcement said.

Godbey's full statement was not released. He told newsmen, however, that he threw the gun used in the shooting out of a bus window when he left Oklahoma City after the slaying.

Pruett was prosecutor when Godbey was tried and convicted at Waurika, Okla., for a $9 hold-

State Legislature Meets Briefly As Fight Brews On Pay Resolution

AUSTIN, Jan. 20.—(AP)—The 51st legislature adjourned until Monday after brief sessions of the house and senate today in which the first semblance of a fair trades bill was introduced.

The measure, by Senator Kyle Vick of Waco, would prevent the sale of cigarettes below cost in normal business transactions, either wholesale or retail.

The senate adjourned until 10:30 a. m. and the house until 10 a. m. Monday. The legislature cut business short in honor of State Comptroller George H. Sheppard, whose funeral was to be held this afternoon.

The house did not take up a resolution prepared by Rep. H. A. (Salty) Hull of Fort Worth to give representatives $10 a day for business expenses in addition to the regular $10 salary. The pro-

Surrender Terms Hard—

Principles Reported Agreed For Ending Chinese War After 3 Years

PEIPING, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Spencer Moose, AP correspondent, got through a dispatch saying terms agreeable in principle to both sides for peace in China's three-year war had been reached there. He quoted a member of a peace delegation to the Communists as saying the terms call for the surrender of Peiping and all North China. Moose cautioned these terms had not been put into effect.

Under the Peiping terms, said Moose's source, Peiping and Kwailin in Suiyuan province, would be handed over to the Reds. The Nationalist commander in the north, Gen. Fu Tso-Yi, would step down and be removed from the Communist "war criminals" list. Moose warned the deal had not been completed and might yet slip, but the Nationalist position in North China seemed hopeless.

Chiang was invited to preside over the Kuomintang political council meeting but did not attend. The right wing clique tried to block the move for a negotiated peace.

The government prepared to shift at least some of its ministries to Canton tomorrow.

Observers took Chiang's absence and silence to mean that he was setting party members aware of the true position and then will come to his own decision when he gets ready.

U. S. Ambassador J. Leighton Stuart and diplomatic representatives of other nations studied the question of remaining in Nanking and sending a part of their staffs with the fleeing government branches periled by approaching Communist armies from the north. Shanghai reported mixed reactions there to peace moves.

On the fighting front itself there was little to report, except that Peiping still shuddered before occasional Red shells whistling into the ancient city of culture.

'Peace, Plenty And Freedom' Promised World For 4 Years

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Harry S. Truman took on leadership of the nation for four years more today with a pledge to strive for worldwide "peace, plenty and freedom."

He took the oath at 12:29 (EST) following Vice-President Alben W. Barkley's swearing in by six minutes.

In a fighting inaugural speech, he branded Communism the chief threat to those "aims and the broader of war."

It was the climactic moment of Inauguration Day for the 64-year-old, one-time Missouri farm boy who, over all odds, had won a White House term in his own right.

He accepted the term by placing his left hand on Bibles opened to the Beatitudes and the Ten Commandments, raised his right hand to God, and swore to serve the nation faithfully in the uncertain years ahead.

Chief Justice Vinson administered the oath. The scene was the east front of the Capitol, bathed in the brilliant sparkle of a bright, winter sun.

Just before Mr. Truman, Alben W. Barkley, 71-year-old veteran Kentucky senator, was sworn in as vice president.

Within immediate range of Mr. Truman's voice from the steps of the capitol were thousands of Americans. By radio, millions of others in this country and abroad heard him. Television carried the scene as far west as the Mississippi.

Stretching along Pennsylvania Avenue to see the after-ceremony parade were an estimated million people or more.

Mr. Truman turned from the solemn oath-taking to address the nation—and the world. He proposed two main lines of attack against the Communist threat.

First, he flatly promised: "We will provide military advice and equipment to free nations which will cooperate with us in the maintenance of peace and security."

Second, he said this country will undertake "a bold new program" to help the world's needy areas with American scientific and industrial skill.

To these, Mr. Truman added a pledge of "unflinching support" of

WHAT! NO PRESIDENT?
WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—(AP)—For 20 minutes today, the United States had no president.

The constitution says the presidential term shall end at noon on Jan. 20.

Technically, then, Harry S. Truman's term ended at noon and he was only a president-elect and not a president.

He officially began his new term upon taking the oath at 12:29 p. m., Eastern Standard time.

No one in official Washington was concerned about the lapse.

the United Nations and continued programs for world economic recovery.

The Congress members who will have time to make to carry out Mr. Truman's programs were seated before him.

In earlier messages this year, the Chief Executive already had told the lawmakers he would seek funds later to supply the nations entering into a security pact with the United States.

His speech today raised the probability of yet another message; to

Gray Fury— Woman Attacked By Rabid Fox At Her Farm Home

A Corsicana physician reported Thursday that a 65-year-old woman had been attacked by an apparently rabid fox while feeding chickens in the backyard of her home near Winkler.

The victim was Mrs. Wade Ferguson, who is undergoing rabies treatment.

Details of the attack were described by L. L. Johnson, a friend of the Ferguson family who is a professional wolf trapper now stationed in Greggton. The woman is recovering in Johnson's home in Corsicana.

The mad fox, after snapping his victim's leg began leaping upon her and ripping her clothing.

Mr. Ferguson, who was in bed ill, heard the commotion, got up and investigated. The elderly couple then managed to flee from the animal.

The incident occurred about 5 p. m. Sunday.

Both Johnson and the physician said they presumed the fox was afflicted with rabies.

Later that evening, dogs at a neighboring house attacked and killed a fox, but it was not determined whether it was the same one that bit Mrs. Ferguson, Johnson reported.

Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson live three miles east of Winkler.

Broken Glass In Door Explained

Visitors to the city hall might as well be informed now that the broken glass in the door leading to the firemen's sitting room wasn't brought about by a domino player having been flung through it.

Neither was it done by a domino player leaving hurriedly, although it is of record that some have torn out of the room with sufficient haste not only to break a pane, but to take the whole door with them.

The glass was broken Thursday when a chair stacked on top of the domino table escaped the clutches of Fireman L. H. (Pete) Curington.

District Head Of Brotherhood Dawson Speaker

Seventy-five men attended the January meeting of the Corsicana Baptist Association Brotherhood with the First Baptist Church in Dawson Tuesday night.

A. S. Hamilton, Waco, District 14 Brotherhood president, was the principal speaker and a motion picture entitled "And Now I See," stressing stewardship was presented.

Tommy Dixon, choir director of the First Baptist church, Corsicana, rendered a solo, "When They Ring Those Golden Bells," playing his own piano accompaniment.

Rev. W. O. Estes, host pastor, welcomed the visitors.

T. S. Patrick, Corsicana, Brotherhood president, presided.

A. F. Mitchell To Secure Office In Local Courthouse

An office for A. F. Mitchell, Corsicana engineer and member of the Texas Highway Commission, is being prepared on the third floor of the Navarro county courthouse, Joe D. Huffstutler, county judge, revealed Tuesday.

A large quantity of old tax records formerly stored in the office on the same floor with the highway engineers' office is being transferred to the spacious grand jury room.

County officials indicate a leak in the roof over the office will be repaired, plaster replaced and other minor repairs made before the highway commissioner opens his office.

Dr. Jared I. Cartledge, Corsicana, pronounced the benediction.

Churches represented Tuesday were First, North Side and Memorial, all of Corsicana; Dawson, Frost and Shiloh.

The Frost Brotherhood has been re-organized and the Blooming Grove Brotherhood is to be formed Friday night, President Patrick announced.

The February meeting will be at the Memorial church, Corsicana.

President Hamilton announced the District 14 Brotherhood at the First Baptist church in Corsicana, February 1 is expected to be attended by 700 men. There has been a gain of 15 brotherhoods within this district the past year—from 51 to 66, Hamilton said.

Ladies of the church served cake and coffee following the program.

Golden Rule Body 'Mother Of Year' Nominations Open

Nominations are now being received for the Texas mother of the year, according to announcement by Dollie Davis Smith of Cleburne, Texas, chairman for the Golden Rule Foundation of New York City which sponsors the selection of the American mother of the year.

Mrs. George W. McDaniel of Abilene was winner of the Texas title in 1948 and Mrs. George T. Jester of Corsicana, mother of Governor Beauford H. Jester, was the Texas mother of the year in 1947. The honor went to Mrs. Ella Stevens Watson of Hillsboro in 1946, and Mrs. M. C. Dockum of Corsicana received the honor in 1945.

Nominations for entries may be secured by sending a self-addressed envelope to Mrs. Smith at Cleburne.

The qualifications, as outlined by Mrs. Smith, are as follows:

1. She must be a successful mother, as evidenced by her own moral attainments and maturity of her individual children.
2. She must embody those traits most highly regarded in mothers—courage, cheerfulness, spiritual and moral strength, patience, affection, kindness, understanding and home-making.

4. She should be equipped by nature to make friends readily.

attached to the resolution, but several asked that their names be left off.

A senate resolution asking the federal government to call a constitutional convention on the question of relinquishing any federal claim to tidelands was approved unanimously by the house.

Other bills introduced in the senate today included one by Senator Gus Strauss of Hallettsville that would empower the railroad commission to require all railroads trying passengers to operate at least one train each day, Sundays excepted.

A bill by Senator Keith Kelly of Fort Worth would permit the prison board to approve its own construction plans without the custodial board of control approval.

The pay-rise resolution by Hull is now expected to be introduced for house consideration Monday.

The Fort Worth legislator placed his proposal on House Speaker Durwood Manford's desk yesterday, but the house adjourned in memory of Sheppard without hearing the resolution introduced.

Hull said the cost of living has gone so high a legislator can not get by on the $10-a-day salary fixed by the constitution. He readily admitted his idea of giving representatives $10 each day for contingent expenses was designed to give them a pay raise.

Opposition from other house members appeared certain, for similar proposals have met defeat in previous sessions.

With permanent committees not yet named in the house, introduction of bills has been confined to the senate. Measures introduced yesterday included one by Senator W. A. Shofner of Temple to transfer motor vehicle registration from county tax collectors to the state highway department.

Senator Howard Carney of Atlanta presented a bill permitting county elections to make the job of county school superintendent appointive rather than elective.

A bill to standardize salaries at minimums ranging from $2,400 to $5,400 and maximum of $5,000 to $8,000, depending on the population of the county, was introduced by Senator G. C. Morris of Greenville.

The senate selected its first sweetheart and first two mascots for the 51st session. Nine-month-old Kerry Ross Kelly, daughter of Senator and Mrs. Keith Kelly of Fort Worth became sweetheart. Mascots are 1-year-old William Bonner Hudson, son of Senator and Mrs. Hill D. Hudson of Pecos, and 20-month-old David Alan Shofner, son of Senator W. A. Shofner and the late Mrs. Norma Wells Shofner.

Practice Of Medicine Is Personal Thing, Dr. J. Wilson David Declares

The practice of medicine is a personal thing between doctor and patient, and when that relation is broken down then medicine is doomed to deteriorate, Dr. J. Wilson David said Wednesday in an attack on any form of socialized and state medicine.

Dr. David, introduced by W. P. Brown, druggist, spoke before members of the Corsicana Rotary Club at their regular luncheon at the Navarro Hotel.

The physician asked members as citizens to study any proposal made to bring the practice of medicine under either federal or state bureaus.

"Is Not New"

Dr. David said socialized medicine "is not new." He cited its trial in England under the panel system, and pointed out it "is breaking away because of the absence of the personal element."

The old Wagner-Murray-Dingle bill, which died in congressional committee, and the new one "under a new name and a new banner" called "health insurance" were touched on briefly.

"This isn't a fight of the doctors," he declared. "It is the fight of the citizens of the United States."

"Ask a man if he is willing for the government to pay all of his doctor and hospital bills, and he probably will answer 'yes,'" Dr. David continued. "Ask him if he is willing to have four percent of his salary deducted each pay day to defray the cost, and the chances are he will say, 'well, I don't know about that.'"

Scores Report

Dr. David rapped a voluminous report of Oscar B. Ewing, federal security administrator, who branded the health of the United States as "deplorable."

The examinations covering a half-year's work were concluded Wednesday and classes were dismissed until Monday morning, Supt. W. H. Norwood announced.

Teachers will be busy Thursday and Friday grading papers.

At the senior high school Friday seniors will make their schedules for next term, Norwood said. Monday, other junior and senior high students will work out their academic schedules.

And Friday, at 1 p. m., students in the entire city school system will know how they stand; report cards will be given out at the respective schools.

"Nicest" Romance Needs Attention, Thomas Declares

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 20.—(AP)—This is a column to draw attention to Hollywood's nicest romance. Yes, I know that other romances make bigger headlines. Rita Hayworth and Aly Khan, for example. Then there are the fighting Finns, the gyrating John Payne, artistic-minded Artie Shaw and Linda and the others. Let me tell you about my favorite romance.

The girl: A black-haired, 16-year-old beauty named Elizabeth Taylor.

The boy: A handsome football champion and army officer named Glenn Davis.

Here is a love match as all-American as his football rating. They met not in Sunset Strip saloon, but playing touch football at the beach. Their romance is being carried on across two oceans and a continent, but by mail only.

It all started when Elizabeth admired Glenn in his film biography, "The Spirit of West Point." She said as much to Mrs. Hubie Kerns, a friend and wife of the USC track and football star.

When Glenn came here for a guest appearance in a Los Angeles Rams game, Hubie asked him if he'd like to meet Elizabeth. Being in his right mind, Glenn said yes.

The Kerns took him to an afternoon party at the Taylors' Malibu home. At first Elizabeth was too busy to notice him. Then when a touch football game was being organized, she grabbed his hand and said, "You play on our side."

They were together a great deal in the few weeks before he shipped out for Korea. Nearly all of it was spent at the Taylor home. Right now they are writing each other every day, he from Korea and she from England, where she is making "Conspirator." He may

TEEN TALK

BY VIVIAN BROWN

You've got to have a heart to be a baby sitter, says Marion Lowndes, author of "A Manual for Baby Sitters" (Little Brown). Her advice to the thousands of girls, boys, grandmothers and ex-girls who make spare money as sitters is to be the kind of a baby sitter they would want to employ for their own children.

Sitters she talked with said that what they would like under those circumstances is a kind, patient, understanding person who likes children.

Today, the author estimates some 20,000,000 children are too young to be left alone day or night. She finds them thoroughly dependent upon the sitter, whose duty is, to "keep them happy; keep them safe."

Some of the essentials of the art of baby sitting suggested by Mrs. Lowndes are:

Get the facts as to the number of children in the household before accepting the sitting.

Be prompt and dependable.

Bring your own toilet, wash food if you think you'll need it.

Get all the details on where to get help if a crisis arises.

Know (1) the number where the parents can be reached; (2) the doctor's number; (3) how to call the police; (4) how to call the fire department.

Use burglar tactics in getting a layout of the house—you should know where light switches, telephone, clothes for the baby are located before the mother leaves.

Keep constant watch to guard against accidents. Do not administer medicines, care of anything but superficial cuts or injuries.

You don't have to worry about letting a baby cry, says Mrs. Lowndes. However, listen for a few minutes to discover whether it is a complaining cry or something more serious.

Play games with the young children keeping in mind that they are fascinated by everyday things such as clothespins, magazines, newspapers, seed catalogues, box-top, soda straws, lumps of sugar, comb, knitting yarn, short ends of line, scratch pads, pencils, rubber bands, etc.

You've probably had attacks of insomnia so the idea of lying awake in bed doesn't appeal to you. Put yourself in the child's place then, who was put to bed before he was sleepy, and must lie awake in a dark room. Naturally he'll find excuses to get up occasionally—he will call for water, ask to go to the bathroom, and dream up excuses at fifteen or twenty minute intervals. Mrs. Lowndes advises that he doesn't want to be a pest, he just can't relax.

Besides having all telephone numbers for emergencies, the sitter should learn how the stove works, how to regulate the heat, where diapers are kept, baby's feeding schedule, sleeping preferences, whether family pets are friendly.

And in case of fire, kids, Mrs. Lowndes reminds you that your first duty is to the baby—never mind anything else until you have him safe. A house can be replaced, but you can't replace a baby.

BOYLE'S Column

NEW YORK.—(AP)—Women's hats don't just happen. They are made to happen.

And there is quite a story behind the first hat of the land today—the hat that America's First Lady will wear in Washington after Husband Harry's swearing-in ceremony.

Bess Truman's inaugural reception hat proves she lives in one world. It is a kind of United Nations hat—melding together the artistic talents of arid Africa, Italy, France and Hungary. The price—undisclosed—is strictly American.

"There is only one hat of this kind in the world—and there will never be another," said Suzanne Remy, petite French designer.

"And it will be worn just once. After that it will be put in the Smithsonian Institution, where they also have a hat worn by Martha Washington."

Africa's contribution came from an anonymous ostrich, which donated ten tail plumes. An elderly Italian, the only man left in New York who can do this sort of work, then spent two weeks laboriously tearing the feathers apart and gluing them back together in the pattern Mlle. Remy designed.

He had to try 25 separate dyes before he could achieve the five shades of mauve the hat required to go with Mrs. Truman's grey dress. The hat was then shaped and completed by Mlle. Remy's Hungarian assistant, Nanouchka.

The mauve ostrich feather crea-

New Jet Fighter To Undergo Tests At Dallas Field

DALLAS, Jan. 20.—(AP)—The navy's newest jet fighter, an oddly-built plane named XF-104, will undergo exhaustive flight tests here.

Otherwise known as the Cutlass, the sleek craft alighted at Hensley field here yesterday after its first cross-country flights—from the Patuxent River, Md., Naval Air Test center.

Built by Chance Vought, the plane has wings which are swept back to the tail, eliminating the usual tail assembly. The two vertical rudders are built into the wing's trailing edge.

"I haven't a decent hat to wear myself," she moaned. "I never do. I don't think I've ever had a good hat in my life."

Sweetwater, U.S., Both Want Gorge On Oak Creek

ABILENE, Tex., Jan. 20.—(P)—A narrow gorge on Oak Creek near the Coke-Nolan county border is a coveted spot. Both Sweetwater and the upper Colorado River Authority claim the right to build a dam and reservoir at that site.

Sweetwater in December voted $2,500,000 in bonds to finance the project.

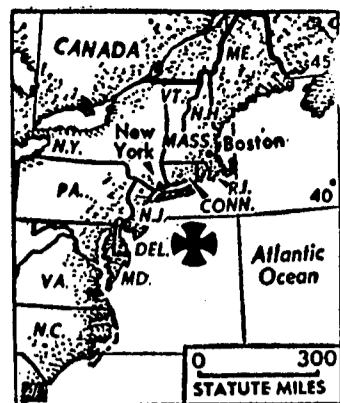

The UCRA, meeting at Bronte Tuesday, voted to go ahead with its long-dormant plan for a dam on the same site.

UCRA Chairman L. T. Youngblood of Bronte says the project would cost from $8,000,000 to $10,000,000 and would provide municipal water as well as water to irrigate from 5,000 to 5,000 acres of farm land.

Sweetwater Mayor J. C. Pace said today the city believes it can obtain the rights to the water.

Youngblood said statutes setting up UCRA gave it rights to water of the Colorado river and its tributaries in Coke and Tom Green counties and that Oak Creek comes in that category. Sweetwater, he pointed out, is in the Brazos, not the Colorado watershed.

THE NATION TODAY

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—(P)—So you'd like to shake hands with the president and watch the big inaugural parade today till your feet hurt.

Most people would, I guess. But why? Why has that always been true? I called a group of psychologists and asked them. Any got these answers:

Why people go out of their way to shake with an important man—If you can shake hands with a big-shot, it makes you feel like a bit of a big-shot yourself. It makes you feel, if only a little, that you're sharing in his power and the important things he's done.

And when you tell your family or friends about it, you hope that it will make you yourself look just a little more important in their eyes.

But shaking hands with an important man, particularly one like the head of a government does more.

Most people want a feeling of security. An important man like a president is often looked upon, although the word may not be used, as the "father" of his country. And Sigmund Freud had a theory that most people are forever seeking someone to take the place of their father or mother who gave them their earliest, and perhaps most real, sense of security.

It was after they cut loose from home and dependency on father or mother that a deep feeling of insecurity set in.

So by contact with an important man you have, if only for a little while, that sense of security you may not have had since childhood.

Why people stand for hours to see a parade—In the first place, a parade is something new and different. Also, it lasts but a short time. When it's over, it's over forever.

So, again, seeing a parade gives a person a sense of sharing in something special, something which only those who were there could see.

And there's something else. A parade is something that breaks in on the humdrum monotony of every day living. While looking at it, a person is escaping from the monotony of his own life.

At the same time, he can project himself into the splendor of it and, by taking part in it that way, if only by watching, he adds color to his life, or feels he does.

I hope I didn't spoil anything here for people who just like to shake a great man's paw or watch a parade without having to analyze themselves to find the reason.

Sluggers Given 2 Year Term

GONZALES, Tex., Jan. 20.—(P)—A two-year penitentiary sentence has been pronounced for James William Seton, 28, Leesville, one of two men accused of slugging a San Antonio salesman after he gave them a ride.

Seton pleaded guilty yesterday to a charge of attempted robbery and was sentenced by Judge Lester Holt in 28th District Court.

Larry Dean, 26, Dallas, under a similar charge, did not appear.

Seton and Dean were accused of slugging C. C. Bishop of San Antonio near Smiley Aug. 28 after he gave them a ride from Seguin.

The two were arrested by a sheriff's posse of 200 men near Wrentham Aug. 27 after an all-night hunt.

CORSICANA, TEX., JAN. 21, 1949

MUTUAL DEFENSE

Interesting questions arise out of suggestions that Great Britain might become directly involved in the fighting around Palestine because of mutual defense treaties with Egypt and Trans-Jordan. The theory is that if Israeli troops enter either of those Arab states, the state entered could invoke its defense agreement with Britain and so call British troops to its aid.

Yet there can hardly be doubt in any un-biased mind, if such there be, that the first border crossings were made by Trans-Jordan and Egyptian troops, in each case. There may be good grounds for accusing Israel of violating United Nations truce orders, but it is hard to see how any operation yet undertaken or apparently contemplated by Israeli troops can be legitimately be called an unprovoked aggression against Egypt or Trans-Jordan.

Inasmuch as mutual defense ties between the United States and the Western Union countries of Europe are under consideration, the questions arising here should be delved into. To set up a hypothetical example, would a defense pact with France entitle that country to pick a fight with Spain and then call on the United States for aid if Spanish troops crossed into France? The conjecture about defense treaties in the Palestine affair has been largely unofficial. Great Britain might do all her neighbors a service by clarifying her interpretation of obligations under the treaties with Trans-Jordan and Egypt.

ALCOHOL AND GASOLINE

Chemists persist in the search for a practical mixture of gasoline and alcohol which would make a satisfactory motor fuel for automobiles and trucks. The principal gain would be conservation of petroleum and lead supplies, both of which tend to be scarce. Once it was thought a cheaper fuel might result, but this idea no longer has many supporters.

The notion still is held that an alcohol-gasoline mixture is desirable to expand the market for agricultural products, chiefly grains from which alcohol can readily be made. Market supplies of grains have been larger than demand at various times, and tend to be so now. But against this theory are set the facts that some other parts of the world have inadequate supplies of grain, and that there is a growing opinion of experts that in a future generation the agricultural industry of this country will be hard pressed to produce enough to feed the people.

In that future time an alcoholic fuel might not be much help, but if a successful mixture can be perfected for use in the intervening period, perhaps the useful petroleum reserve can be spared to some degree.

SPEAKER OF SPEAKERS

When Sam Rayburn of Texas was re-elected speaker of the House of Representatives the other day, he entered a very select class, that of the former speakers who regained their post after an interruption. In all the list there had been hitherto but four: Two early speakers, Frederick A. Muhlenberg and John W. Taylor; Thomas B. Reed, the Maine man of the bitter tongue who served from 1889 to 1891, and again from 1895 to 1899, and Henry Clay. Clay made a record, still unbroken, of having served in three separate periods, 10 years altogether. Clay made another record, shared by only one other. He became speaker in his first term in the House, an honor gained later only by William Pennington in 1860.

Clay evidently was the speaker of speakers. Rayburn will have to work hard to come up to him.

WOMAN'S ANGLE

If the advice of an Australian woman senator is heeded, a place in Labor's councils there may be granted to members of her sex.

Senator Annabelle Rankin asks "What help is it to housewife who has no potatoes and no idea when she will get them, to know that learned economists are busy debating the effect of the strikers' claims on the national economy?"

This legislator's theory is a valid one. Most women are impatient with flights of rhetoric as remedies for painful situations. The feminine mind leaps lightly over economic concepts as such and fastens on the cold facts of suffering and hardship.

Decisions arrived at by labor and management might be tempered by more common sense if workers' wives could be presented at the council table.

The more our modern civilization advances, the more difficulty there seems to be in getting ahead of the accumulated rubbish.

FOLLOWING THE VIKING

The route from Norway via Greenland, followed by the medieval Vikings when they discovered America, is to be retraced by three Danish wireless operators, headed by Carl J. Petersen. The three need have no terrors of the North Atlantic, as for the last three years they have been serving at a weather station in Northern Greenland. They will try to follow the course of Eric the Red and Leif Ericsson, the first of all Europeans to step on American soil. The ship of three young Danes will be long-pointed and double-ended like the ancient Viking craft.

This may be more than a mere adventurous excursion. It may add to our historical knowledge. Prof. Samuel E. Morrison of Harvard University, a sailor as well as a historian, set himself the task of following Columbus on his voyage of discovery, employing a vessel as like those of Columbus as he could find, and following exactly the explorer's day-by-day record of progress. This actual experience of the currents and landmarks with which Columbus had to deal gave a new insight into the Columbus journal, denied to historians who had merely read it, not acted it out. Morrison was thus able to identify with fair certainty the much disputed island on which the Spanish sailors set foot on October 12, 1492.

Perhaps by employing a like method Petersen's party may settle the old dispute as to just what was this Vinland which the Norsemen of A. D. 1000 reported they had found.

NEW MODE OF PUNISHMENT

"Guilt is personal." So Theodore Roosevelt used to say of corporation misdeeds for which a fine seemed inadequate punishment indeed. The fine was paid out of the corporation's treasury, and the officials who had committed the unlawful act went unscathed.

A new idea for punishing violators of the anti-trust laws has been suggested by Representative Walter C. Ploeser of Missouri. He would forbid a convicted official from serving as an officer of any business company for a period of years. While not so severe as a prison sentence, this would be far more drastic than any ordinary fine, since it would cut off the offender's chief revenue for the specified period. Such a punishment might be a real deterrent.

ABOLISHING THE COLLEGE

The next constitutional amendment might well be one abolishing the electoral college. Freedom House, a New York organization created to promote liberal thought and founded to commemorate Wendell L. Willkie, has just raised its voice in behalf of this cause.

PERSONAL MAGIC.

So much, the while we come and go,
Forever stays unseen,
That none of us can ever know
How much a smile may mean.

So easily the heart is stirred,
That men who were afraid,
By hearing just a cheering word
One effort more have made.

So sensitive the moods of men
To every frown and sigh,
That none can know what happens when
A friend or foe goes by.

Yet magic changes have occurred
New courage to supply;
Some worked them with a cheering word,
Some with a twinkling eye.

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts, which would divide each state's electoral votes proportionately according to the popular vote, or some other, the electoral college should go. It's existence exposes the presidential race to chicanery and the possibility of the utter defeat of the popular will. It has defeated that will in the past, to no great harm because times were quiet. These days are so full of risks that any risk should be abolished wherever possible. Congress should act this year. It takes a long time for a constitutional amendment to work its way through 48 state legislatures. Adoption requires a three-fourths vote—36 states.

THE OLNEYS

For the first time in 50 years the name of Peter B. Olney will not be heard in New York City federal courts. Peter B. Olney Jr. has just resigned the post of federal referee in bankruptcy, which he has held since 1922, succeeding his father, who had held it since the post was created in 1898. A son, also Peter B. Olney, is still in law school, and not ready to take the place over.

Peter B. Olney the elder was a brother of Richard Olney, attorney-general and secretary of state in Cleveland's second term. Richard Olney was a pugnacious Boston lawyer, whose fighting note to Great Britain in 1895 almost led the nation into war over a Venezuelan boundary dispute. Before that he had invoked a court injunction and sent federal troops to Chicago to break the railroad strike led by Eugene V. Debs. Many years after the event it came to be realized that his course was needlessly drastic; labor leaders believed that Olney snatched at a pretext to break the strike.

President Wilson tried to draw Olney back into public service as ambassador to Great Britain. He declined, thinking that the duties of the place would be largely social, not foreseeing the first world war. It would have been odd to see the United States represented at London by the sharpest diplomatic opponent that Great Britain had had in recent times.

State Comptroller George Sheppard Dies In Austin

AUSTIN, Jan. 19.—(AP)—State Comptroller George H. Sheppard died last night shortly after officially beginning his tenth elective term.

The 73-year-old veteran officeholder had been in office longer than any other elected state official. He died in St. David's Hospital here, where he had been under treatment for several weeks. Not until three or four days ago did his condition become serious.

Sheppard's tenth term began officially along with that of Gov. Beauford Jester, who was sworn into office yesterday.

A native of Waco, Sheppard first was appointed comptroller, in 1930. Thereafter he was voted back into office every two years.

Before becoming a state official Sheppard had served as mayor of Sweetwater, Texas, and as tax assessor of Nolan county. He was former president of the Texas Tax Assessors' Association.

Ten years as a school teacher preceded his election as Nolan county tax assessor in 1910, his first public office. He served eight years. He was mayor of Sweetwater for five years. Gov. Dan Moody appointed him comptroller in 1930 to fill the unexpired term of Sam Houston Terrell, who had resigned.

Sheppard was credited with helping write into many of Texas tax laws the mechanics of collecting taxes.

Survivors include his widow and four daughters, Mrs. Jack Armstrong of Lubbock, Mrs. H. O. Deen of Stillwater, Mrs. Harris Toler and Mrs. Reggie R. Stolley, both of Austin.

All clubs were urged to be 100 per cent in the educational fund which is to be turned in at the next Council meeting. A motion to revise the quorum to six clubs and twelve members carried.

The treasurer reported a balance

PREACHER WHO LOST HIS HEAD STILL CRIES ALOUD TO AGES

John The Baptist, a Romantic Desert Figure, Continues to Speak to the World—Proclamation More Effective Than Organization—Every Life Says "Behold"

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS and EARL L. DOUGLASS

Once there was a preacher who had his head cut off; today there are some preachers who have had their message killed. Which is worse? Would you rather lose your head, or your message?

That question is answered in the asking. The decapitated prophet is still speaking to the ages—today the Sunday School millions of the world sit at his feet—but the teachers who have no clear word of truth and authority are without followers even in their own time.

There may be more tragic spectacles than that of the man called to preach who has nothing to say to his own times, but I cannot think of any at the moment. To occupy the office of shepherd of souls and to be unable to function therein is worse than the fate of starving Chinese.

The Desert Prophet. This John the Baptist was a voice. He spoke the real, the new and the true. In the desert alone with God—and the desert is as essential a part of a prophet's equipment as a library or a vocabulary.

This son of promise lived open-souled to the great truths. In solitude he acquired that which made him fit to speak to the multitude. John the Baptist, trained in the desert, is an admonition to parents and teachers. Few of us spend enough time apart from people. The modern idea of a "good time" is associated with company and crowds and light and noise and chatter. How can we learn to think for ourselves until we first learn to dwell alone, where our soul may be still? "The world is too much with us."

Lonely Folks become "peculiar," we say, "peculiar" being our synonym for individuality. Most of us moderns would rather be sinful than singular. We set standardized fashions, standardized machines, dresses alike; we read the same "popular" magazines and books; we follow slavishly the same prevailing fashions; until all the flavor and tang of personality is gone from our minds and form our outward appearance. Our music and thinking is set to the strains of "everybody's doing it."

Sticks and Fingerboards. Not every stick is a fingerboard—but it may be. Christians who are bemoaning that they are not "talented" need only recall that any stick, so long as it is straight, may point. And the chief mission of the Christian, as of John the Baptist, is to point to "the Lamb of God that taketh away the sin of the world."

This sensational prophet from the desert did not set himself up to be any great preacher. Of course he had crowds, as has every fresh, zealous voice; but his crowds did not fill him with pride or self-exaltation. He knew that he was only a herald, a forerunner, an advance agent. His sole business was to cry "Behold!" This was the greatest greatness of John; he kept himself steadily to the work of proclaiming a Greater! He was big enough to be little himself. He was a first-class man who proudly accepted a second place. So clear was John's perception of the all-importance of Christ that he cried, in season and out, "He must increase, I must decrease." His success lay not in exalting himself, but in holding very high and steady the name and character of the Coming One. He knew that while he had no philosophy equal to the needs of his day, he proclaimed a "Person" who was entirely adequate.

Right here is where the Herald from the wilderness speaks the word of words to our troubled time. We are in a perilous period of history. All the forces upon which mankind has pinned his hope have failed us. Military

PTA Magazine Advises Giving Children Candy

Parents who usually frown on candy as a dietary requirement of their young, are doing an about face, according to an announcement in the current issue of the Texas Parent-Teacher magazine.

Candy is badly needed in foreign countries today, because of its caloric value and as a morale builder. The National Congress of P.T.A., extending its consideration for children to those outside the American boundaries, is including candy in packages to be sent overseas.

The total value of each package will be twenty dollars. Local unit associations may contribute the whole sum or any part of it, according to ability to give, according to the magazine. Small donations will be pooled to make complete packages.

All checks for the overseas project should be made payable to the National Congress of Parents and Teachers and should be sent to the National office, 600 S. Michigan boulevard, Chicago, Ill. It should be specified that the check is intended for the International Education Project.

Each package will bear the name of the National Congress all the way to its destination. Each box will contain something special for the teacher, as well as gifts for the children, including pens, pencils, crayons, scissors, glue, soap, a warm sweater and scarf set, plus thirty pounds of candy.

A card giving the name and address of the local unit will be included in the package. It is hoped that in this way an exchange of letters will develop which might prove an experience in intercultural education.

INAUGURAL

outline in more detail the "bold program" for economic aid to the more than half the people of the world who he said are living in conditions approaching misery.

Diplomats of many lands were present to hear him.

"Our aim," Mr. Truman said, "should be to help the free peoples of the world, through their own efforts, to produce more food, more clothing, more materials for housing, and more mechanical power to lighten their burdens. We invite other countries to pool their technological resources in this undertaking."

From all over America, his backers and well-wishers came to share the excitement and glory of inauguration day.

They packed along the national capital's bunting-draped broad avenues to cheer every glimpse of the President.

An air of carnival reigned.

For a few moments, Mr. Truman turned his back on it all. Two hours before the oath-taking ceremony, he went with Mrs. Truman and her daughter, Margaret, to St. John's Episcopal church across Lafayette Park from the White House.

There, he bowed his head and heard the Rev. C. Leslie Glen pray for him, for the Congress, for social justice, for the family of nations and for "these we love."

Mr. Truman was up with the dawn for this day of days in his 64-year life.

He found the skies clear and the sun breaking out with unusual winter strength, belying the weather man's prediction of partly cloudy.

"It looks like old man weather is going to be with us again," the President commented to reporters when he stepped out of Blair House at 6:50 a. m., to begin his day.

He was up so early for two reasons: 1. He likes to get up early, and 2. He had a breakfast date with the surviving men who fought with him in "Battery D" of World War I days.

These old soldiers, sitting down together at the Mayflower Hotel, ate Missouri ham and hominy grits. And as old soldiers will do, they got off some cracks about their changed physical condition since their fighting days.

Mr. Truman looked over and opined that despite "the rubber tires around the middle" most of them would be able to walk the mile and one-quarter route of the inauguration parade—that is, if they laid off the bottle.

He admonished his old comrades: "After one o'clock or 25 minutes thereafter, I don't give a damn what you do, but I want you to stay sober until then."

They grinned and, as a souvenir of the occasion, gave him a gold-headed walking stick.

Thanking them, Mr. Truman said he hoped some day to pass it on to a grandson.

Mr. Truman gave each of the 100 or so at the breakfast an autographed picture of himself.

Right off the bat when he got there, he squelched any thought among them that they should address him as "Mr. President." One "We'll have none of that here."

So it was "Captain Harry" as he kidded one another and sang such improvised songs as this:

"Up from Jackson county
"Came a county judge one day,
"He worked into the White House
"Of this grand old U.S.A.
"Took his place like Lincoln
"In the hearts of common men
"No wonder that the nation said
"We want him back again."

PRE-INAUGURAL TALK—President Truman smiles as he acknowledges applause just before beginning his talk at the Truman-Barkley Club dinner in Washington. Mr. Truman and Senator Alben W. Barkley (D-Ky.) (seated), Vice President-elect, listen. The President declared that he intends to carry out the Democratic platform pledges and exert all his efforts to "get peace in the world." (AP Wirephoto.)

Bubbling with happiness, Mr. Truman told reporters:

"These fellows are real. They have no axes to grind. They don't want any jobs. They don't call me Mr. President. They call me Captain Harry."

From the breakfast, Mr. Truman went back to Blair House to change into formal morning attire for his visit to the church and the inauguration.

He wore a gray business suit to the breakfast.

As the central figure in America's greatest pageant went briskly about his morning rounds, crowds from far and near elbowed their way along the broad reaches of Pennsylvania Avenue.

Some of the early arrivals in front of the capitol, where President Truman and his running mate, Alben Barkley of Kentucky, were to be sworn in, received free ear muffs.

Long before the church services started, Dean Acheson, the newly confirmed secretary of state, and Robert A. Lovett, retiring undersecretary, took fourth row seats at St. John's.

Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson, in formal morning attire, came too. He soon was followed by members of the cabinet, arriving separately.

Vice President-elect Barkley and his daughter, Mrs. Max Truitt, arrived just ahead of the Presidential family.

The President wore a cutaway coat, wing collar, and striped trousers, and carried his silk topper as he entered with Mrs. Truman and Margaret.

Promptly at 10 the choir in white surplices and red cassocks, marched in singing the Processional Hymn.

The services, confined to song and prayer, were simple. Not more than 150 persons were in attendance when Dr. Glenn began reading from the Scripture.

There was the traditional Episcopal prayer "For thy servant, Harry, President of the United States and all in civil authority."

Other prayers were read for Congress, for the "family of nations" and "for those we love."

Outside, a Pennsylvania Avenue vendor displayed big Dewey-Warren buttons along with inaugural souvenirs.

The Marine Band turned up far ahead of time.

A big inaugural shield—an American Eagle with wings spread across a blue and gold background, was mounted in the center of the Presidential stand.

Members of the cabinet drove from the church to the capitol, arriving more than an hour before the inaugural ceremonies were scheduled.

Foreign diplomats in top hats and morning coats added a formal note to the scene.

As the noon hour approached, the wooden stands on the capitol plaza filled rapidly with 17,500 ticketholders.

Other thousands were jammed into the park area on the fringes of the lofty dome, and they shinnied up in droves.

Police patrolled the roof of the capitol, keeping a watchful eye on the crowd. None but a few photographers were allowed a birds-eye view from the roof.

The Presidential family left the Blair House at 10:22 a. m. (CST) and drove to the capitol.

Applause and shouts of "Hi, Harry" rippled along as the procession moved up to capitol hill.

The Presidential car reached the capitol at 10:37 and Mr. Truman went inside for a brief wait before taking his place on the ceremonial platform.

They were gay, laughing, and excited. It was a sharp contrast to the somber wartime inauguration of Franklin D. Roosevelt four years ago.

Members of the House of Representatives, most of them carrying heavy overcoats and mufflers, gathered in the House chamber at 11:30 a. m. After a brief session, the House adjourned to march to the inaugural platform in a body.

The representatives were followed from the capitol rotunda by thousands of members of the cabinet, chiefs of the U. S. Armed Services, and Supreme Court justices.

The Senate walked out of the capitol on the opposite side of the platform at 11:55 a. m. It was led by Senator McKellar (D-Tenn.) Senate president pro-tempore, and Sergeant At Arms Joseph Duke.

The dignitaries were slow in taking their places and the oath-taking ceremony had not begun at 12:10 p. m.

The President rode to the capitol in a black convertible auto. Mr. Truman and his daughter, Margaret, followed him in a blue car.

Riding with the Chief Executive were Senator Hayden (D-Ariz.) House Democratic Leader McCormack (Mass) and Senate Secretary Leslie E. Biffle.

Crowds along the streets whooped and cheered. Somebody help up a sign: "Even Iowa Went Democratic."

Mr. Truman and Margaret appeared on the stand at 12:12 and were escorted to front row seats.

It was 12:15 when Mr. Truman walked onto the great stage for his inaugural.

The Marine band struck up the traditional "Hail to the Chief."

Mr. Truman clasped his bare hands behind him. He looked out at the crowd and grinned. The crown grinned back.

Mr. Truman and everyone else, had bared his head for the invocation by the Rev. Edward Hughes Fruden. This was followed by the Star Spangled Banner, sung by Phil Regan.

The ceremonies got under way at 12:10 p. m. (11:19 CST) 19 minutes behind schedule with the invocation.

Four minutes later, Barkley was sworn in as vice president by Supreme Court Justice Stanley Reed, a fellow Kentuckian.

There followed a prayer by Rabbi Samuel Thurman of St. Louis.

Mr. Truman took the oath at 12:29 and then began his inaugural address.

Yet beneath all the gaiety and excitement, the most Washington has stirred up in many a year there was an under-tone of solemnity, and dignity.

For at this supreme moment in the story-book career of the one-time Missouri farm boy there rested on him the eager expectations of millions of Americans for more courteous blessings, and hopes of an uneasy world for peace in our time and peace for all time.

And peace was the theme everybody expected in advance in Mr. Truman's inaugural address.

That—and a "fair deal" at home—was what he hammered on hardest in a rousing campaign that produced one of the biggest upset victories in American politics.

He repeated it last night at a dinner given him by the electoral college—an ancient institution he says he wants to preserve unchanged.

The chief executive seemed once more to underscore his wish for peace in selecting the ten commandments and the Beatitudes as the Biblical passages on which to steady his left hand while taking the oath of office for the world's most trying job.

"Thou shalt not kill—"
"Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the children of God."

A white frame platform with towering columns, built across the front steps of the capitol building, was the setting for the inaugural ceremony a 11 a. m. CST. Out front there were seats for 17,500 and standing room for another 100,000.

First there was the vice presidential oath for Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky. Then it was Mr. Truman's turn to hold aloft his hand and repeat after Chief Justice Vinson of the supreme court:

"I do solemnly swear that I will faithfully execute the office of president of the United States and will, to the best of my ability, protect and defend the constitution... so help me God."

The words were to be carried to all corners of the nation by every major radio network. And for the first time in history spectators at television screens hundreds of miles away could see the ceremony.

Then, time out for the chief executive to snatch a fast snack.

After that, the inaugural parade—two and a half hours of it with Mr. Truman himself leading the procession triumphantly down to the White House.

Seven miles of costly, glittering

Capital Witnesses
Greatest Parade
In Its History

By The Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 20. (AP)—

President Truman rode in triumph down Pennsylvania avenue today at the head of the greatest parade in Washington's history.

Hundreds of thousands of his fellow countrymen cheered him in to his newly begun four-year term as president and commander in chief.

It was an ideal day for the two and one-half hours of pageantry that had been building up for weeks. The weather was crisp, cold and sunny.

The vast throng that jammed the "Avenue of Patriots" hours before Mr. Truman was sworn in at the capitol was in a merry holiday mood, despite the long wait.

Due to start at 1 o'clock, the inaugural parade did not get under way until almost 2 p. m. EST.

The oath-taking ceremonies on the capitol steps, witnessed by some 130,000 persons, ran nearly a half hour behind schedule.

Then Mr. Truman, who was up at dawn for a breakfast with his World War buddies of Battery D, stopped for a quick lunch of ham and turkey in the capitol before getting into an open car for the slow-paced ride to the White House.

Signaling the start of the historic procession, an armada of warplanes led by six lumbering bombers, circled in a northwesterly course over the flag-and-bunting-decked city.

It was the biggest flotta of aircraft ever to sweep across Washington. 7,000 in price and many planes of all types.

Riding behind the grand marshal's open car, President Truman and Vice President Barkley got a sendoff from members of congress who were lining the parade route.

The dull boom of the presidential salute sounded in the distance as the parade got under way.

Sworn in front of the White House, a fleet of limousines drove up, and floated members of the White House staff, visiting dignitaries and stars of the entertainment world.

The parade of the iron fence around the White House was re-moved so Mr. Truman and his family and guests could get through to the reviewing stand.

Mr. Truman, who was planning to watch the rest of the procession from the elevated reviewing stand.

The temperature, under an unexpected sun, had risen to nearly 40 degrees.

floats, dozens of bands and bugle corps, plenty of famous people, Missouri mules, beautiful girls, a steam calliope.

And by way of showing off America's might in these troublous times, Legation Hill army men, precise West Point cadets, natty Naval Academy midshipmen, tanks, guns, 700 flying planes droning through the sky, almost everything except the flag.

Steel cables stretched all the way along renowned Pennsylvania avenue to hold back perhaps half a million visitors and as many more Washingtonians. There were bleacher seats for 44,000, sold out long ago at $2 to $10 apiece.

In front of the White House was another white, wooden stand for Mr. Truman to review the part of the parade trailing him from the capitol.

Left over for late afternoon (4 p. m. CST) was a presidential reception at the National Gallery of Art. The White House couldn't be used. It being repaired.

And tonight comes the inaugural ball in a two-acre National Guard armory, with the president in white tie and tails, Mrs. Truman in black velvet and their daughter in a puff of Margaret-pink tulle.

The weatherman cast a sympathetic eye over all the festivities.

Late last night he still stuck to "partly cloudy and dry with some sunshine," with the thermometer edging out of the middle 30's in the morning into the lower 40's in the afternoon.

It wasn't that way four years ago. There was an inch of snow and slush on the ground when Harry Truman took the vice presidential oath and Franklin D. Roosevelt was sworn in for his first term as president.

That was at a wartime ceremony on the south portico of the White House, with only a few thousand people looking on by special invitation.

Three months later, Mr. Roosevelt died. Mr. Truman took on what he said was "an almost unbearable burden." But now at 64 his doctor says he's "fit."

For his inaugural day had a sentimental start—breakfast with famous Battery D, the outfit he commanded in World War I.

For that event at the Mayflower Hotel, "Captain Harry" sounded an early reveille. He also caught the check.

And to the men of Battery D there was assigned a place of special honor in the parade—right alongside the open car of the president and vice president.

Mr. Truman plowed into the dawn-to-midnight schedule with something like six hours sleep. Yesterday was almost as busy. There was the electoral college dinner, for one thing.

A little later, Mr. Truman went back home, did a quick change from tails to tuxedo, picked up the family and some friends and was off to a "Gala" at the armory.

There's never been anything like it. More than 700 artists and musicians put it on.

A select crowd of 5,300 included cabinet members, supreme court justices, diplomats, around 30 visiting governors and other dignitaries who have been taking in the inaugural side-show.

And downtown, for the folks who couldn't attend the Gala, there were fireworks arching up from the grounds of the Washington Monument, and a flaming, 30-foot picture of the chief executive.

CARD OF THANKS.

I wish to express my deepest appreciation to everyone who worked so faithfully to save my home from burning when fire broke out from a gas heater last week.—Sincerely, Mrs. W. B. Zee.

ADDRESS

More than half the people of the world are living in conditions approaching misery," Mr. Truman declared.

To combat those conditions he proposed enlisting American capital investments and industrial skills—plus any assistance which might come from other sources.

"Our aim," he said, "should be to help the free peoples of the world, through their own efforts, to produce more food, more clothing, more materials for housing, and more mechanical power to lighten their burdens. We invite other countries to pool their technological resources in this undertaking."

The "Truman plan" for world betterment constituted the only new point in the president's four main courses of foreign policy action. Under the other three this nation would:

1. Continue "unflinching support to the United Nations" and search for ways to strengthen it.

2. Continue programs for world economic recovery; first, through the European recovery program; second, by increasing world trade.

3. Strengthen "freedom-loving nations against the dangers of aggression." Mr. Truman flatly promised: "We will provide military advice and equipment to free nations which will cooperate with us in the maintenance of peace and security."

While the president nowhere named Russia outright in his scathing attack on Communism, his words apparently ended any possibility of quick and easy compromise between the Soviet Union and the west.

But "in due time," he said, he believes "those countries which now oppose us will abandon their delusions and join with the free nations of the world in a just settlement of international differences."

That he does not consider such a settlement possible now he made clear at the very outset. The United States and other non-Communist nations, he declared, have been balked in their work for "a just and lasting peace" by "a regime with contrary aims and a totally different concept of life."

"That regime adheres to a false philosophy which purports to offer freedom, security and greater opportunity to mankind," he asserted. "Misled by this philosophy, many peoples have sacrificed their liberty only to learn to their sorrow that deceit and mockery, poverty and tyranny, are their reward."

"That false philosophy is Communism," he said.

Then he went on to compare that "false" philosophy with Democracy.

"Communism," he said, "is based on the belief that man is so weak and inadequate that he is unable to govern himself, and therefore requires the rule of strong masters."

"Democracy is based on the conviction that man has the moral and intellectual capacity, as well as the inalienable right, to govern himself with reason and justice. "Communism subjects the individual to arrest without lawful cause, punishment without trial, and forced labor as the chattel of the state. It decrees that information he shall receive, what art he shall produce, what leaders he shall follow, and what thoughts he shall think."

"Democracy maintains that government is established for the benefit of the individual, and is charged with the responsibility of protecting the rights of the individual and his freedom in the exercise of his abilitive powers."

"Communism maintains that social wrongs can be corrected only by violence."

"Democracy has proved that social justice can be achieved through peaceful change."

"Communism holds that the world is so deeply divided into opposing classes that war is inevitable."

"Democracy holds that free nations can settle differences justly and maintain lasting peace."

Mr. Truman said he stated "is concept of the differences between 'Communism and Democracy' not to draw issues of belief as such, but because the actions resulting from the Communist philosophy are a threat to the efforts of free nations to bring about world recovery and lasting peace."

He reviewed what the United States has done for peace through the United Nations and by direct aid, and indicated that while much progress has been made, a long, difficult and costly struggle still lies ahead.

"Our efforts have brought new hope to all mankind," he said. "We have beaten back despair and defeatism. We have saved a number of countries from losing their liberty. Hundreds of millions of people all over the world now agree with us, that we need not have with us, that we can have peace."

"The initiative is ours."

"We are moving on with other nations to build an even stronger structure of international order."

"We shall have as our partners countries which, no longer solely concerned with the problem of national survival, are now working to improve the standards of living of all their people. We are ready to undertake new projects to strengthen the free world."

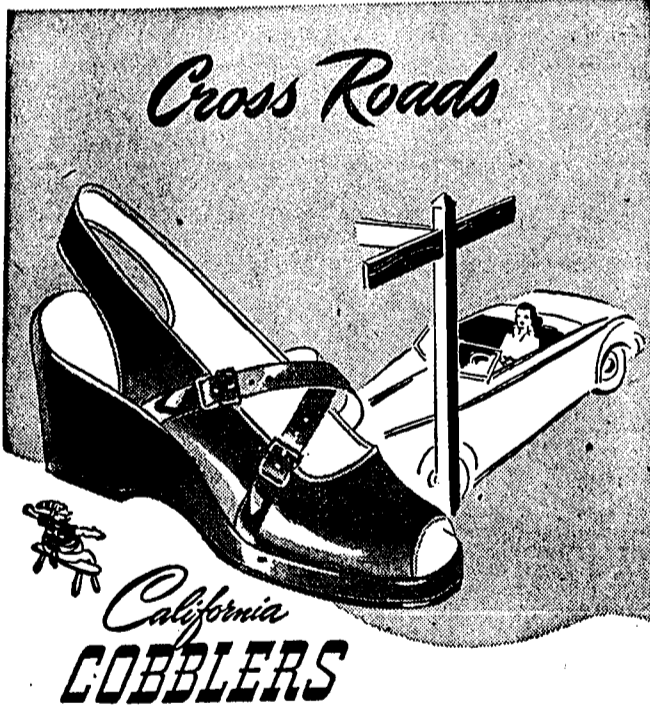

Then with another slap at Communism and its claim that it raises living standards, Mr. Truman said:

"Democracy alone can supply the vitalizing force to stir the peoples of the world into triumphant action, not only against their human oppressors, but also against their ancient enemies—hunger, misery and despair."

To carry out these policies successfully, he added, the United States must keep itself strong and prosperous.

"Slowly but surely we are weaving a world fabric of international security and growing prosperity," he declared. "Our allies are the millions who hunger and thirst after righteousness."

Farm Machinery Replaces Horse In 40 Counties

COLLEGE STATION, Jan. 20.—(AP)—The horse and mule, as far as farming is concerned, has disappeared in 40 of Texas' 254 counties.

These figures were released today by H. P. Smith, agricultural engineer of the Texas Agricultural Experiment station.

With the exception of some hand hoeing and hand harvesting of cotton, crop production in these 40 counties is mechanized completely.

Thirty counties, Smith said after a survey, use less than 25 horses or mules, and in another 35 counties, less than 100 horses or mules are used.

Tractor power is used almost exclusively in the production of

Burglar Enters Preacher's House

The Rev. Henry H. Price, pastor of the Assembly of God Church, discovered Thursday that five of his shirts had been taken off his back.

The pastor reported to the police department Thursday morning that while he and his family were in Dallas his house at 406 South Fourteenth St. had been ransacked.

The thief took five shirts, including four snowy white ones, found $2 in a "piggy bank," removed candy from the ice box and added a box of marshmallows.

The pastor said the burglar apparently used a skeleton key.

Every Citizen Should Interest Self In Health

AUSTIN, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Every citizen of Texas should be greatly interested in the over-all health picture of the state as indicated by the morbidity report just released by Dr. Geo. W. Cox, state health officer, showing the year's totals on communicable diseases.

Comparing the 1948 figures with the totals of 1947, a great reduction is shown in some of the major health hazards. For instance, in 1947 there were 1,125 cases of diphtheria, while in 1948 the total had dropped to 924.

These typhoid cases could have occurred if the persons had been immunized. This same statement applies to smallpox, in which the total dropped from 15 cases to 4.

Vaccination would have prevented the incidence of even one case of smallpox. Typhoid fever remained at a comparative standstill, with 317 cases being reported in 1947 and 318 in the past year.

These typhoid cases could also have been prevented by immunization.

The results of malaria and typhus control work throughout the state is reflected in the total number of cases for 1947 and 1948. Malaria dropped from 4,729 to 3,577, and typhus was cut nearly in half with the total falling from 610 to 344.

Dysentery continues to be a serious problem in public health in Texas. The incidence of this disease jumped from 15,863 in 1947 to 20,920 during the past year. Influenza dropped off from 116,564 to 76,823, and mumps was reduced by nearly half, from 17,202 in 1947 to 9,838 in the past year.

Dr. Cox emphasized that while there are many diseases like polio which are against which there is no specific protection, it is a tragic mistake for any person to be allowed to have diphtheria, smallpox or typhoid fever, when he can be completely protected through the simple means of immunization.

Student Paper Takes Up Race Discussion

HOUSTON, Jan. 20.—(AP)—The student newspaper at Rice Institute here suggests editorially that the question of admitting negro students should be discussed—privately.

Nearly the entire editorial page of the newspaper, The Thresher, was devoted to the question of race relations.

One lengthy editorial urged private discussion of admitting negroes rather than the circulation of a petition. The editorial said such a petition was being talked about on the campus. Student sources said, however, that no such petition is being circulated.

Check Requests For Rural Aid

County schools' applications for rural aid were checked in the office of County Superintendent J. C. Watson Wednesday by Deputy State Superintendent Jack Gibson.

The applications have been on file for some time.

Gibson approved all things except the four-year high schools didn't have a complete list of graduates for the terms 1946-47 and 1947-48, Watson said.

Applications are not yet in from Kerens and Frost.

Watson said the rural aid applications must be in Austin by Jan. 31, and work on them is expected to be completed by Friday.

Police Probe In Baker Death Is Brought To Halt

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Jan. 20.—(P)—A negative report by the FBI laboratory at Washington brought to a halt today the investigation of Millionaire Greenville Baker's mysterious death.

"It still leaves us with nothing to hold anybody on," said Sheriff Frank Stoutamire in discussing the FBI tests of evidence in the pre-dawn roadside death Monday of the 27-year-old sportsman.

The veteran officer added that he still believes Baker was killed accidentally when his jeep wrecked on a dirt road leading from his mother's luxurious plantation home near here.

With Baker when he died, a wound in his head was black-haired Thelma Griffin, 21-year-old divorcee and tavern waitress.

The FBI said it was unable to ascertain from the evidence at hand whether the wound in Baker's head was caused by gunshot, and that the blood and strand of hair on the barrel of a pistol found near Baker's body were insufficient to be of help in laboratory tests.

52-20 Club On Its Way Out

The 52-20 Club, about which raged so much protest from those who were not eligible for membership, is on its way out.

The club was so named because soldiers home from the war were entitled to $20 a week for 52 weeks if they couldn't find a job. The loud protest came from those who didn't go to war, according to W. B. Reedy.

On July 25, 1949 this particular grant to the ex-soldier will come to an end for about 60.66 percent of the veterans.

Reedy, head of the Corsicana office of the Texas Employment Service, said the soldier was entitled to draw the compensation during two years after date of his discharge, or two years from the date hostilities were declared ended, whichever date was later.

This date was July 25, 1947. Reedy, incidentally, fairly well punctured the contention of those who mumbled in their beads about the compensation that every soldier got right out of army into the lap of luxury—$20 a week luxury, of course.

He pointed out that since the act became effective on Sept. 4, 1944 less than one half of the total number of potential claimants for benefits ever filed a claim. This was on a Texas basis.

Reedy said a check of local figures has not been made lately, but it is expected to follow the state trend. In July, 1947, however, a check made here revealed that of a total of 1,200 veterans who had filed claims for the money, less than 50 had exhausted their benefits.

"In other words," Reedy said, "out of a total potential of approximately 811,000 Texas men and boys who saw military service during the qualifying period, Sept. 16, 1940 to July 25, 1947, only approximately 200,000 ever filed even the claim for benefits."

"Of the 200,000 who did file their initial claim, only about 14 percent have exhausted their benefits. This boils down to a figure of less than seven percent of the total eligibles drawing out the maximum benefits."

"The figures do not take into consideration the fact that several thousand veterans filed the initial claim, but were employed or dropped their claims before receiving any benefit payments."

Renowned Weed Killer Found To Damage Cotton

COLLEGE STATION, Jan. 20.—(AP)—D. R. Ergle, A. and M. College chemist, said today his experiments with the renowned weed killer, 2, 4-D, indicate that even extremely small amounts damage cotton plants.

He found no evidence that the weed killer might be used in any way to benefit cotton.

Ergle was a speaker at a two-day short course which opened at A. and M. today on the use and application of 2, 4-D weed killer. He is a chemist in the department of plant physiology and pathology and has conducted experiments to test whether 2, 4-D might, in minute amounts, be used to stimulate the production of cotton plants.

Another speaker was Dr. L. S. Evans, agronomist of the United States Department of Agriculture bureau of plant industry, soils and agricultural engineering, Beltsville, Md. Dr. Evans said 2, 4-D is now the most widely used weed killing chemical in the United States. "It is not a poison, in the ordinary sense, but a hormone-like material that causes serious disturbances in plants. These growth-regulating substances cause marked changes in the plant's form and function, even from minute quantities."

M. K. Thornton, extension agricultural chemist at A. and M., said: "I think you can safely say that any time 2, 4-D sprays are released in the air in the proximity of a cotton field down wind, we can be reasonably sure some damage will result."

Edgar C. Tullis, plant pathologist for the United States Department of Agriculture at Beaumont, gave statistical information concerning the lateral drift of 2, 4-D when the weed killer is released from planes.

D. D. Clinton, Harris county agricultural agent at Houston, said: "The cotton farmer is an established citizen of this area and the rice farmer cannot afford the indiscriminate use of 2, 4-D, thereby driving the cotton farmer out of business in the rice belt. Rice farmers have voluntarily discontinued the use of 2, 4-D in dust form and in all probability will discontinue the use of airplane methods of dusting in 1949. The rank and file of rice farmers do not want to hurt their neighbors who are cotton farmers."

Also a speaker was Claude L. Welch, Memphis, Tenn., director of the division of production and marketing for the National Cotton Council of America.

Richland Rural Mail Carrier Is Highly Praised

W. L. Hendon, rural carrier on Route 1, Richland, has been making his territory for 30 years and is highly appreciated, regarded and praised in a letter received by this newspaper from Mrs. E. E. Grand, Route 1, Richland.

Mrs. Grand writes of the 30 years of service rendered by the carrier—referring to the six days per week, about 300 days per year, of "good and bad roads, heat, cold, x x x but our faithful mail carrier x x x has passed that 30-year mark with flying colors and can still smile."

Only seven of the original patrons remain on the route he serves.

"Parents will remember the extra trips he made to deliver to them letters from sons 'over there'—letters he knew were anxiously awaited x x x we are proud of our mail carrier. We wish him every success and every good thing in the future, but mostly we wish he did have better roads to come to us on," the letter concluded.
